Which city is this video about?

Name 2 things you can do in London.

Which activity would you like to do the most?

Why?

Tuesday L.O. To organise writing

This image is from a webpage all about London.

- What do you notice?
- Is it fiction or non-fiction?
- Does it tell a story?
- What do you notice about how it is set out?

London

- Things to Know
- London, England
- London is the capital of the United Kingdom.
- The River Thames is the chief river of southern England. It is the longest river in England and the second longest river in the United Kingdom. Thames is pronounced "Tems" rhymes with gems.

The title starts the writing and is underlined.

The photograph can tell us that the writing is about a real thing.

This is a non-fiction piece of writing. It tells us facts, not a story.

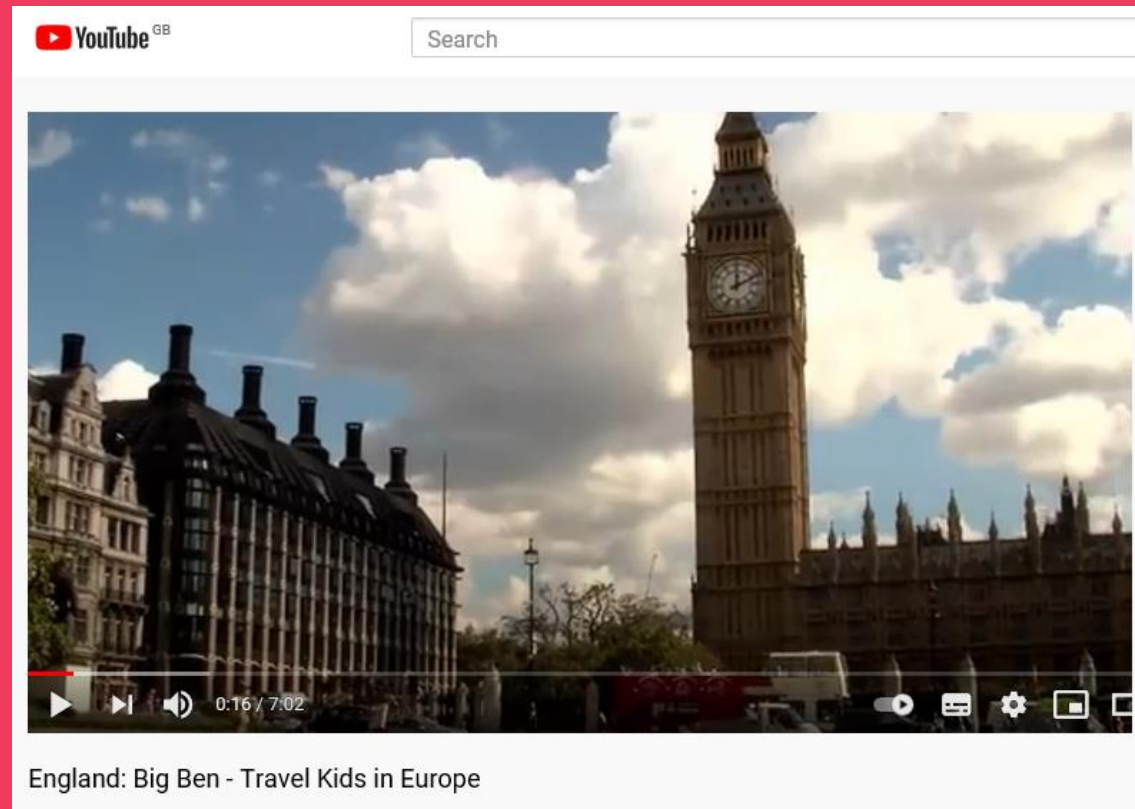

These dots are called bullet points. They tell us when a new fact starts.

Tuesday L.O. To organise writing

Over the next 2 days we are going to write a non fiction text all about London.

Watch this video about two famous London landmarks.

Today, try and remember as many facts as you can about Big Ben.

Tuesday L.O. To organise writing

- To start our non-fiction writing we need an underlined title in middle of the line.
- Our next sentence goes underneath the title, even if it starts with the same words.
- Finally, write down three facts you can remember in full sentences.

For example:

Big Ben

Big Ben is a huge, old bell in London. It is not the clock.

Wednesday L.O. To organise writing

Yesterday, we were looking at non-fiction texts. Can you remember what this means? Talk to someone in your household about how we know something is non-fiction.

- Remember, start our non-fiction writing we need an underlined title in middle of the line.
- Our next sentence goes underneath the title, even if it starts with the same words.
- Finally, write down three facts you can remember in full sentences.

For example:

The London Eye

The London Eye is a giant, exciting wheel by the River Thames.

Thursday L.O. To punctuate accurately

Today we are going to edit. That means correcting things that are wrong or changing something to make it better.

There are two bits of text on the website that need editing; they are missing all their punctuation!

Use a green pen like we do in school to add in any missing full stops, commas, questions marks or capital letters.

You do not need to do both texts. Choose the one you feel is at your level.

Friday L.O. To present neatly

In Year 1 we start to learn how to write in cursive. On the Year 1 working from home page there are some cursive writing practice sheets, as well as instructions on how to form letters correctly.

Spend some time today practicing your cursive letter formation.

In school, we always start with the curly C letters first (c, o, a, d, g).
